AMERICA'S UNTAPPED OPPORTUNITY
THE JOB/STUDENT GAP IN COMPUTER SCIENCE

Sources: College Board, Bureau of Labor Statistics
In 35 of 50 states, computer science doesn’t even count to satisfy existing high school graduation requirements, not categorized as part of STEM. (in China: it’s required to graduate)

In states that recognize it, enrollment is 54% higher, and so is participation by women, students of color

We can change this! WA law passed in 2013. Idaho School Board policy change imminent
